THE ROAD TO ROME

by

RON GREENWOOD

England Team Manager

I was looking forward to the current season with eager anticipation, because it is a vital one for English football. Our first target must be the finals of the European Championship in Italy next June. It is imperative that after ten years in the international wilderness, we reach the later stages of a major competition. It is important in connection with the development of the national team as a whole, and it is also essential that the players should be given an opportunity to perform at the highest level. How can you regard somebody as world-class if he has never played in a really important tournament?

We did the spadework in our away fixtures last season, and I am very optimistic that we are going to qualify for the finals. Looking back on my two years as national team manager, I can safely say that some progress has been made. Of course, you must never be satisfied, you must try to achieve the ultimate. My aim was to introduce the necessary continuity in our international set-up. That means that Johnny Cartwright, who looks after the Youth team, Dave Sexton who handles the Under-21 squad, Bobby Robson who runs the "B" international team, and all the other coaches who work with them, follow the same pattern as the senior team. Their target is to produce players who are not completely new to international football for the England team. In the meantime, I have established an almost permanent England squad, with additional players coming through from the other teams. But I shall not make wholesale changes—not even after the European Championship finals—in preparation for the next World Cup. There will only be a gradual change of personnel. We are always looking for intelligent, skilful players, footballers with good technique, all-rounders who are good at both facets of the game—defence and attack.

In the League, I look forward to seeing teams trying to emulate Liverpool and Nottingham Forest. These two clubs are setting the right standards for our game, standards which the foreigners are now admiring—and in the European Cup, fear. But while our League football is satisfactory, I would like to see the reduction of matches. Eighteen teams in the First Division would be ideal, with a four up and four down promotion and relegation system. This would give the coaches more time to work on basic skills, and relegation wouldn't be such a threat, because it would be easier to get back into the top flight. If you play good football, it is better to be on the top of Division Two than in the bottom half of Division One.

But my main concern is the England team, and our immediate task is to do well in the European Championship. There has been a levelling-off in international football recently, there are no outstanding teams, but the overall standard is high. It is certain that one country will emerge during the finals in Italy which will prove to be better than the others. Let us hope that it will be England!

A LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

Dear Collectors,

Minicards is proud to present another super album from "Figurine Panini". If you have collected any of our previous series, you know already about the importance of finding friends to swap your doubles with, but if this is your first "Figurine Panini" album then remember to be on the look-out for other collectors, because swapping is good fun and can fill quite a few of those empty spaces quickly and economically.

Remember that when your album is nearly full and you have swapped as many of your doubles as you can then the last few stickers can be ordered directly from us. Please see the instructions below.

Enjoy yourselves!

THE EDITOR

P.S. Minicards Ltd distribute "Figurine Panini" albums and stickers throughout the U.K. and Eire, and make every possible effort to ensure that most local newsagents stock them for you as long as they are in demand. Also, we guarantee that all the stickers in this collection are printed in equal quantities.
